MR. JOEL P. SNIDER, PRINCIPAL

A Message to the Class of 1947

It has been almost two years since the Second World War ended, but the world is still torn by unrest, hatred and strife. It is not the kind of world we want to live in. However, in our efforts toward creating a better world, we must not commit the error of adopting a different and unsound way of life. Our American way—the democratic way—has been proved to be the best. Our hope for an improved world, for ourselves and others, lies in the practice of honesty, diligence, and kindness toward others. These are indispensable to any worthwhile way of life.

Farewell

BY PATRICIA BATEMAN

Farewell to Snowden,
Alma Mater.
Rules were strict;
Everyone tried to keep them.
We made mistakes;
Everyone was forgiving.
Loyal were all the teachers; we'll
Love them always.

Toward new heights
Onward we go.

School of our youth,
Now we must depart.
Onward we will strive
With memories of all,
Dear to us always.
Each with joy and sadness
Now bids fond adieu.

After Graduation

MARY ELIZABETH DELOACH

When I receive my diploma and depart,
I walk slowly for the last time down the stairs
Which I have trod a thousand times before
In rushing to a class, or leaving school,
Until morning comes once more;
Eager that time to be down the steps and out the door,
For I knew I should return.
As I descend now, for the last time,
My steps grow slower and falter;
Old memories within me swell—
A noisy lunchroom, study hall,
The welcome clang of the tap-bell.
I think of these and hot tears well,
But I push them back.
And moving on I reach the door,
Pausing, just a moment—then
Squaring my shoulders, I walk out,
And up the walk I halt,
And turn about,
Raise my hand in a salute,
And shout
Goodbye to Snowden.

HIGHLIGHTS OF 1946~1947

SEPTEMBER

After the usual hectic first two weeks of school, Snowden pupils settled (at least partially) into the humdrum groove of school life. There were fewer pupils enrolled this year. The Honor Society elected officers, and the choosing of the cheerleaders caused great excitement. Activities were planned for the art classes, under the supervision of Miss Myrtis Smith, and for the music department under Mrs. George Richmond, one of the seven new teachers in the junior high school. The Student Government was back on the job with new officers and monitors and Miss Virginia White as adviser. Miss Dorothy Lancaster sponsored the Red Cross and Miss Hazel Hooten the Y-Teens. The very exciting first football game of the season was with Bellevue.

OCTOBER

The "Chatterbox," which made its first appearance this month, selected Bobby Willis as October's outstanding personality. The "Snooper" was back at work with all the choicest and juiciest bits of gossip. The library was re-opened with Miss Adelaide Gladden and her staff ready and willing to help all. The football season was well under way. Berl Ols-wanger entertained the pupils royally with a concert. The chilly winds of October blew in autumn leaves and report cards, which awakened those still sleepy from the summer.

NOVEMBER

Two events tied for most important at Snowden this month. One was the visit to school of John (Bubba) Brueck, who had been stricken with polio in the summer. The second was the amateur show given by the music department, which gave pleasure to all. The outstanding personality of the month was Ann Mary Derrick. The first honor roll came out with the number of girls surpassing the boys by a surprising margin.

DECEMBER

Amid the hustle and bustle of plans for the Christmas holidays the event that outshone all others was the election of the officers of the ninth grade. Harry Estes was the outstanding personality of the month. The football season ended with the annual banquet and the election of the football queen, Billy Young. The Glee Club presented a lovely Christmas program with Mary Elizabeth DeLoach as narrator. Joanne Sayre won first prize in the city-wide doll dressing contest. The transcription of the "Stop, Look, and Live" program over WMPS with David Shainberg as master of ceremonies thrilled everyone except Johnny Bowden who could think only of the twenty-five dollar bond he had just won in the safety essay contest. Darnell Fulgham designed the cover for the new student directory which expedited telephoning for the social events during the holidays.

JANUARY

Yawning and groaning, the tired pupils returned to a new year and a new term. Luckily the month was enlivened by several unusual events. Ione Flint won third prize in the Fire Prevention Poster contest. One of the friendliest and most attractive girls at Snowden, Ruth Boulware, was the outstanding personality of the month. Snowden hearts were filled with pride when a former Snowden pupil, Hilma Seay, was chosen

Maid of Cotton. The basketball season started with a thrilling victory over Hollywood. "Hist, She's a Man," a play directed by Mr. A. G. Burkhart, was very entertaining. The leading roles seemed to have been written especially for Mary Florence White and R. P. Holt.

FEBRUARY

This cold and icy month was filled with many activities. Snowden made another safety broadcast with Bobby Boone as master of ceremonies and Scott Michaels as quiz master. Ethel Harrell won the twenty-five dollar war bond for the best essay on safety. Spelling champion for Snowden was Houston Payne. The student government gave a tea dance with food and fun for all. Of interest to all future writers of Snowden was the journalism clinic. Glenn Walker was February's outstanding personality.

MARCH

The winds of March blew in one of the year's most impressive ceremonies, that of the induction of the new members of the National Junior Honor Society. There were twenty-one new members. Work began on the yearbook with the selection of the staff. Martha Lita Gibbs was the outstanding personality of the month. Snowden students heard an excellent program given by the Junior Red Cross. The basketball season ended with Bobby Peters leading in points.

APRIL

April Fool's Day and a sudden blooming of daffodils ushered in the month. This brought baseball, softball, spring dresses, and spring fever. Snowdenites were either pledging or studying at a terrific pace in a belated attempt to make up for bad grades. Scott Michaels was the outstanding personality of the month. Snowden had twenty-one representatives in the Latin tournament. Barbara Melton and Ethel Harrell represented Snowden in a special safety broadcast at WMPS studio. Ethel won another twenty-five dollar bond, as her essay on safety was the best of all in the junior high schools.

MAY

The terrible ordeal of final examinations was pleasantly interrupted by the Cotton Carnival with its ever new midway and parades. The Snowden float was drawn by ninth grade boys. The senior class play, "Life Begins at Sixteen," was given under the direction of Mr. A. G. Burkhart. The greatest surprise of the month was the selection of Mary Kathryn Pitts as the "Cinderella of the Cotton Carnival," under the sponsorship of the Co-Operative Club. John Dillon was the outstanding personality of the month. The Red Cross party and variety show presented at Kennedy Hospital thrilled the pupils participating as well as the veterans.

JUNE

The best and briefest month of the school year held many gaities. Kid Day was a success, with dolls, pinafores, and bonnets galore. The Honor Society, graduating class, and the home rooms all had wonderful parties. No one admitted it of course, but it is true that many graduates had a feeling of sadness at the thought of not returning to Snowden next year.

The football banquet was a gala affair given by the P.T.A. in honor of the team and the football queen, Billy Young.

The boys' basketball tournament started off a bit early this year, but showed many exciting games. The seventh grade champions were the 7-4's who defeated the 7-5's 13-10 in the championship game. The team was captained by Frank Speight who was the main spark throughout the entire tournament.

The 8-1 home room won the eighth grade championship by defeating several hard fighting teams. Captain Bill Irby and Lee Douty helped the team to stay in the running.

In the ninth grade race, the 9-4 home room, captained by Earl Lucius, was defeated by the 9-2's, led by Bill Chapman. The final score was 75-70.

The eighth grade softball tournament presented an unusually interesting series of games. The 8-2's home room, led by Eddie Kaplan, was successful in winning the championship by defeating 8-1. The ninth grade free-throw champion was Buddy McAden.
